

ESKİŞEHİR OSMANGAZI UNIVERSITY
Graduate School of Natural and Applied Sciences

ARCHITECTURE DEPARTMENT MSc PROGRAM EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

- To cultivate researchers who are well-versed in methods, approaches, theory and discussion in scientific research,
- To support the development of different and innovative approaches, strategies and models in architectural design, theory/criticism and practice,
- To redound the ability to examine and interpret contemporary theories and approaches on architectural design and practice, urban design, urban identity and memory, urban and cultural policies, space perception relations,
- To acquire the ability to conduct interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary studies in areas such as building materials, building elements, structural systems, physical environment control and project and construction management,
- To ensure questioning the interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary structure of human-environment relations; critically evaluating spatial relations, city, culture, politics, economy, etc. , by considering their context; understanding and interpreting architecture in relation to different disciplines